'A story about love, betrayal, family' - Bookaholic Confessions

If you could see me now...

Lizzie and Bea Harris were always very close. They were sisters and nothing could tear them apart. Until Bea dies, leaving her sister twelve letters, one for every month.

Alone for the first time Lizzie is left trying to pull together the pieces of a life she has for so long ignored and find a place for herself...out from under the shadow of her sister.

But the letters are revealing a sister Lizzie isn't sure she recognises, and she's beginning to wonder if she ever really knew Bea? As Lizzie delves deeper into her sister's life she begins to uncover secrets that could tear her and her family apart.

Perfect for fans of Sue Fortin, Tracy Buchanan and Cecilia Ahern.
